Javits was chosen yesterday by Democratic leaders to run for Congress in the Seventeenth (Silk Stocking) District in Manhattan.

He is William J. vanden Heuvel, who will oppose John V.

Lindsay, 38-year-old Republican incumbent.

Carmine G. De Sapio, the leader of Tammany, announced Mr. vanden Heuvel's selection after a meeting of the leaders and co-leaders of the Assembly Districts that constitute the Congressional District. The meeting was held at Democratic county headquarters, 331 Madison Avenue.

It was understood that the leaders went into the meeting with a total of five favorite sons. The final choice of Mr.

vanden Heuvel was announced as unanimous.

Mr. vanden Heuvel lives at 2
East Seventieth Street with his wife, Jean, and their 5-month-old daughter Katrina. His father-inlaw is Jules Stein, chairman of the board of the Music Corporation of America.

The designee is a relative newcomer to New York politics, although he has been a volunteer aide in upstate and statewide campaigns. He was special counsel to Governor Harriman in the 1958 legislative session.

Native of Rochester

Mr. vanden Heuvel was born in Rochester, N. Y., studied at Deep Springs Junior College in California and was graduated from Cornell University and its law school. While at Cornell he became Democratic campaign manager for the Thirty-eighth Congressional District.

At that time he also became associated with the late Maj. Gen. William J. (Wild Bill)

Donovan in the law firm of Donovan, Leisure, Newton and Irvine. After his graduation in 1952 he went into the Air Force, becoming a captain in the Judge Advocate General's Department.

Mr. vanden Heuvel returned to civilian life in 1953 and spent two years in Thailand as special assistant to General Donovan, then Ambassador to that kingdom. In 1956 he was campaign manager for Anthony Akers, a Democrat, who was defeated by Representative Linsay's predecessor, Frederic R. Coudert. In 1958 he was active in the successful campaign of Arthur

the law firm of Javits, Moore

Levitt for State Controller. He became an associate in 1958 in & Trubin and was made a partner last Jan. 1.
